Have you built an extensive network of professional connections who appreciate your integrity and ability to make a difference?

Are you tired of long hours, travel, and relocating your family?

Do you find yourself frequently thinking about whether "job security" is an attainable goal in corporate America?

Have you realized (or admit you've avoided thinking) that now is the time to focus on "your" dreams instead of fulfilling someone else's corporate vision and mission?

If you answered yes to any of the above questions, then now could be the right time to chart your own course.

Like many of our franchisees who have similar backgrounds to yours, you can look back with pride at how you've successfully tackled challenges and the success you've achieved as a corporate executive. And like you, all of our franchisees have faced this question: "What is job security?" Many decided that controlling their own destiny and securing their future is the only option.

Shelly Blackman

*Managing Partner
FPC of Bellwood, GA
8 Year USMC Veteran
Former Regional Dir of Operations*

"There aren't any limits when you work for yourself. I am in charge of when & where I work. My business and income keep growing."

Mike Dubeck

*President
FPC of Troy, MI
Former Operations & General Manager*

"I wanted control, to be my own boss, and did not want to be run into the ground. Executive recruiting has been quite a natural fit in many ways."

Ben Gidwani

*President
FPC of Orlando, FL
Former Corp Director of Engineering*

"I now own a business whose primary function is to help change people's lives for the better including mine and my family's. Nothing can beat that."

“Our franchise model offers a unique opportunity for you to build a business by leveraging what and whom you already know as a successful executive. Our team of experienced executive recruiters helps you to implement our tested & proven system, including how to become a successful business owner. We're by your side so you can improve and grow your business.” – Ron Herzog, CEO, FPC.
